KING'S KITCHEN CELEBRATES SEVEN YEARS AND MORE THAN 218,400 MEALS SERVED

PHOTOS AND STORY
BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

More than 120 people including volunteers and guests of the King's Kitchen on Tuesday celebrated the soup kitchen's 7th anniversary.

The kitchen is a non-profit outreach of Central Bible Church.

Since the King's Kitchen opened its doors in 2012, volunteers have served more than 218,400 meals to people in need, Central Bible Church pastor Mike Ramsey said.

The kitchen serves about 100 people a day, he added. About seven to 10 people volunteer daily to serve Monday through Saturday, Ramsey said.

"We appreciate the fact that we have the opportunity to minister to you all," Ramsey said. "Thank you for continuing to come every day Monday through Saturday, day in and day out, holidays included. We appreciate the fact that we have the opportunity to serve you. We really do love serving you and we thank you, you are the reason that we are here."

Ramsey also handed out a stack of certificates to organizations and individuals that provide assistance to the kitchen on a daily basis.

Silver Slipper Casino sous chef Martin Navarro and his team prepared Tuesday's meal, as they do every Tuesday, Ramsey said.

King's Kitchen serves meals six days a week in a restaurant-style setting where guests are served their meals, Ramsey said.

James Bordelon said he started volunteering at King's Kitchen about 10 months after it opened.

"The people are great, the pastor is great and I feel this is one of the best programs on the Gulf Coast," he said.

Bordelon said he has seen the daily numbers of served grow over the years.

"We always serve desserts and salads," he said. "I have been going to businesses to have them donate to the program."

Bordelon said he has witnessed the work of the kitchen's outreach pastor Rev. Connie Lyons.

"She has helped out so many homeless people with her own money," he said. "She is excellent. Many people donate

'DUMBBELLS FOR DONATIONS' -- Local volunteers provide Thanksgiving meals for deserving families

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE

During her search to merge her passion for fitness and community service, local personal trainer Kayla McFadden discovered Brenda's House Family Center in Bay St. Louis and raised enough donations to feed 10 families this Thanksgiving.

Through her job, McFadden said, she met Brenda's House Family Center's Director Lisa Wilbourn.

"She talked to me about the work they did in the community," McFadden said.

Brenda's House Family Center offers services including:

- "Family Time, a supervised visitation program for children, their parents, siblings, and/or others as approved by MDCPS. Family Time will allow the children to have more frequent or longer visits to remain connected to their family members after being removed from their homes. City of Waveland seeking participants for 'Christmas on Coleman' event

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The city of Waveland is gearing up to host "Christmas on Coleman," on Sunday, Dec. 7.

"We are very committed to making Christmas on Coleman an event that all members of our communities, young and old, can enjoy," event coordinator Kristen Tusa said.

In addition to a Christmas parade, guests can enjoy taking pictures with Santa Claus, caroling, hot chocolate, cookies, and popcorn, Tusa said.

The carolers scheduled to sing include those from Hancock Middle School, Hancock High School, and St. Rose Traditional Choir.

There will be a Christmas workshop where children will have the opportunity to make their own crafts to take home, Tusa said.

Members of the Hancock Junior Auxiliary will be on hand to help children write letters to Santa and do "glimmer." Tusa said. There will also be someone on site facepainting.

The museum and art gallery will also be open.

The city is also seeking participants for the parade, which will usher in Santa Tusa said they are seeking golf carts, marching groups, small floats, or a group of residents interested in dressing in festive clothing and marching in the parade.

Tusa said that they are also seeking businesses which would like to sponsor craft materials, prizes, and/or an activity.

The deadline to sign up to participate is Dec. 1, Tusa said.

A parade entry form can be found on our website at www.seacoastecho.com.

Christmas on Coleman is scheduled for Dec. 7 from 4 to 8 p.m.

The parade begins at 5 p.m.

CMR Approves Waveland's Handicap Ramp

BY HUNTER DAWKINS
GAZEBO GAZETTE

The Commission of Marine Resources (CMR) approved two measures for Hancock County during its meeting Tuesday morning in Biloxi.

First, the commission approved the city of Waveland's request to the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (MDMR) a few months ago to fill coastal wetlands for the construction of a handicap accessible ramp near the Garland Ladner Pier.

MDMR officials brought the application before the CMR with an outline and schematics. After reviewing this measure briefly, CMR unanimously approved the application.

The CMR then heard from Hancock County resident Keith Ladner, who sought authorization to retain a boathouse and pier constructed without approval and without compliance. This boathouse, located on Jourdan River in Bay St. Louis, violated the general permit and variance which Ladner had been granted.

The board approved Ladner's request unanimously.

MDMR's Office of Coastal Resources Management Agent Matt Murphy presents the application from the City of Waveland.

- MDMR Executive Director Joe Spraggins discussed bringing members of Congress and state legislators to view and understand the effects of the Bonnet Carre Spillway opening on the Mississippi Sound.
- CMR voted 3-1 with one commissioner briefly absent to establish administrative actions on penalty procedures for fishermen.

- Marine Patrol Chief Keith Davis mentioned numerous citations on red snapper (as the season has been closed by the MDMR), fishermen without any licenses, and a few undersized speckled trout.

The size is require to be above fifteen inches.

Davis said CMR should reach out to local legislators to stop the sale of recreational fish to local restaurants or vendors. Spraggins said MDMR will host a legislative forum on Dec. 6.

Look for the helpers

When I was a boy and I would see scary things in the news, my mother would say to me, "Look for the helpers. You will always find people who are helping." — Fred Rogers

I'm a child of "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood." I loved watching the show and still do.

I recently watched "Won't You Be My Neighbor," the documentary about his life, which included interviews with Rogers and old footage from his early days on television.

In essence, I spent the entire length of the movie crying. His messages to children still resonate with me as an adult and my experiences.

Honestly, I think he was talking to his adult audience just as much as he was talking to the children, (cue more tears as I write this.)

"Scary news" is often a hazard of this job. Sadly, scary things happen and the public needs to know about them.

I'm always hoping that we will learn from the mistakes and horrors of past events, but that has yet to be seen. Maybe one day.

Even though it's part of my job to cover the not-so-happy news, my real passion is looking for the helpers.

The majority of the time, people call me and tell me about the great works people are doing and other times I've just been in the right place at the right time to capture the moments.

I received a phone call about Kayla McFadden's Thanksgiving food drive and I was glad to do the story.

She is helping others who are less fortunate and going through rough times enjoy a delicious Thanksgiving meal.

But she is also helping people who want to learn more about health and fitness, and all for the cost of a donated food item.

On Tuesday, I covered the anniversary celebration for the King's Kitchen.

What really stands out to me is the number of volunteers. There are volunteers of all ages and it makes my heart happy to watch local senior citizens serve meals to those in need.

The above are just a couple of examples of the helpers in our community. And I've barely scratched the surface, even after the numerous stories I've written on our community's helpers.

I think it's important to not let the "scary" dominate our worlds.

I do think we need to know about events, yes, but it doesn't need to be in our faces all the time or we will lose sight of the good in this world.

Although it's often hard to see, the good is still out there. So, I will continue seeking out the helpers.

"Real strength has to do with helping others." — Fred Rogers

Pedestrian deaths

There is a disturbing national trend of increasing pedestrian deaths.

An estimated 6,227 pedestrians were killed in traffic in 2018, according to the study from the Governors Highway Safety Association. That figure represents a striking rise from a decade earlier, when 4,109 pedestrians were killed in traffic.

The report cited alcohol use, speeding, unsafe infrastructure and the prevalence of SUVs as some of the biggest problems contributing to the fatalities. It also suggested that the increased use of smartphones may contribute to such deaths.

I live in LOHO, which is bounded by Meadowbrook to the north, Ridgewood to the east, I-55 to the west and Eastover to the south. Our streets are poorly lit.

Night after night, I watch neighbors walking at night with no reflective clothing. To aging eyes on a dim street, they might as well be invisible.

It gets worse. Often these pedestrians, especially the young, are listening to music using headphones, preventing

Guest Opinion

by Wyatt Emmerich
Publisher of Northside Sun

them from hearing an approaching car. This is a recipe for tragedy.

In our neighborhood, the speed limit is 25 miles an hour. If you get hit at that speed, there is a 15 percent chance of death. Serious injury is likely.

Traffic deaths are three times greater at night than during the day, though only 20 percent of driving is done after dark. Fatigue and alcohol are two important causes, but experts say the biggest factor is darkness. Ninety percent of a driver's reaction depends on vision, and we were just not engineered to see very well in the dark.

The typical 50-year-old driver needs twice as much light to see as well after dark as a 30-year-old. Yet few pedestrians are even aware of this, much less factoring it into their walking precautions. If you are walking at night, don't listen to music. It's too dangerous. And please wear some type of reflective clothing.

I try hard to be a defensive driver. I've never had an accident. But what's far more important than defensive driving is defensive walking.

A driver is protected by the hull of the car and air bags. A pedestrian has no such protection.

Recently, I came close to getting run over. That's when I realized I was not a defensive walker.

I was in downtown Jackson and was crossing East Capitol Street. The walk light was lit. I was within the pedestrian crosswalk. I had the right-of-way. All was good, or so I thought.

All of the sudden a vehicle that was stopped at the light began a turn onto the street and accelerated. I had no time to react. Thank God the driver saw me at the last minute and slammed on the breaks.

If a collision had occurred, I probably would have lived, but I would have suffered significant injuries that would have altered my life for months if not forever.

That's when I realized that I was completely lacking as a defensive pedestrian. I assumed that the vehicle at the light would do what it was supposed to do and give me the right-of-way.

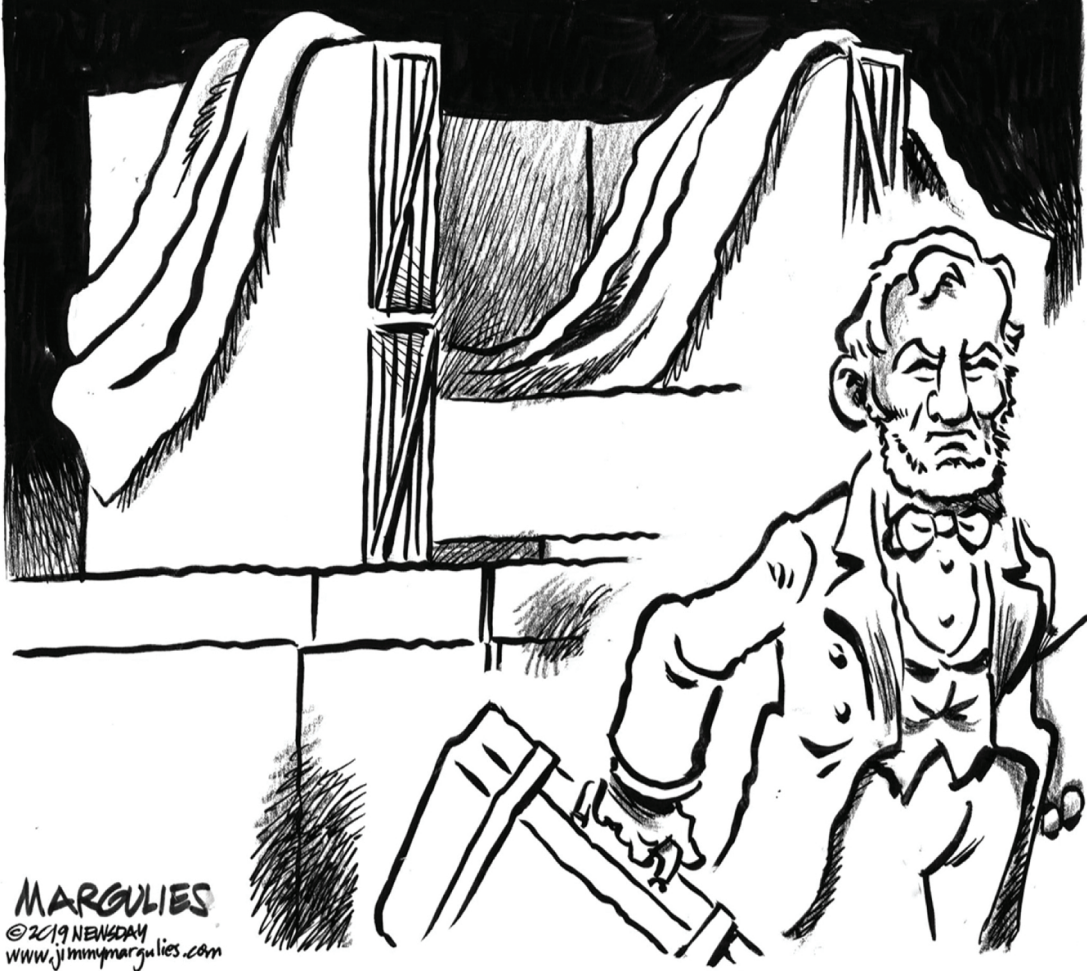

That was terrible, awful, stupid thinking. It's that type of thinking that is causing thousands of unnecessary pedestrian deaths a year.

Sure I would have been right in the event of an accident, but so what? I would still have been seriously injured.

By law, the pedestrian always has the right-of-way. But the car has the power and strength. It will always win a collision.

MORE THAN A TEST SCORE

What do Einstein, Bill Gates, and Steve Jobs have in common? Not only were they all extremely successful in their careers, all were vocal about their dislike of formal education. The focus of schooling has continued to be put on tests and grades, not on learning as it should be. Remember the class you got a B in, yet worked so hard and learned so much? Now compare that to the easy A class; it looked better on your transcript, but you don't remember a bit of information you "learned" in class. The idea of having the perfect score is the problem, we should try to do better and better, not get 100% test scores. Don't be a turkey, remain alert this Thanksgiving

SEA COAST ECHO

There is so much to love about Thanksgiving: family and friends, turkey and touchdowns, pumpkin and pecan pies. The holiday should be an enjoyable time, and the Mississippi Department of Transportation (MDOT) wants all motorists to reach their destinations safely by avoiding distractions and buckling up.

"Thanksgiving is one of the busiest holidays for traveling," said Melinda McGrath, P.E., MDOT Executive Director. "Motorists should expect extra vehicles on Mississippi roadways. All drivers should take extra precautions to ensure they, and their families, arrive safely at their holiday destinations."

According to AAA, more than 55 million people will travel more than 50 miles from their homes for Thanksgiving. The vast majority will drive, with the heaviest traffic expected on November 27 and 28.

With more vehicles on Mississippi highways, MDOT urges all motorists to avoid driving distracted. Research shows sending or receiving text messages takes a driver's eyes off the road for an average of 4.6 seconds, the equivalent – at 55 miles per hour – of traveling the length of a football field blind.

Drivers who use a handheld device are four times more likely to get into a serious crash.

"Drivers have one job when they are behind the wheel: just drive," McGrath said. "Don't let text messages and phone calls take your attention. They can wait. If it's urgent, find a safe place to stop or have a passenger assist."

No matter your

Thanksgiving destination, safety should be your top priority. MDOT offers these tips for safe driving this Thanksgiving:

Plan ahead. The MDOT Traffic mobile app shows real-time road conditions along your travel route.

Get plenty of rest before driving. Remember to plan frequent stops if traveling long distances.

Remain patient.

With more vehicles on the road, delays are possible along your regular routes.

Buckle up. Seat belt use is one of the easiest and most effective ways to save lives and reduce injuries from a possible crash.

Always use caution in work zones. Road workers also want to make it home safely to their families for the holidays.

Watch out for wildlife. Cooler temperatures mean deer and other wildlife are more active near highways.

Use extra caution if traveling during the times of dusk and dawn.

Do not drive impaired. If you do plan to drink, make sure you have a designated driver.

MDOT crews and contractors will limit road construction requiring lane closures beginning the afternoon of Wednesday, November 27.

All construction will halt Thursday, November 28, and will resume the morning of Monday, December 2. This will provide maximum travel capacity and minimal construction delays to motorists traveling throughout the state during the holiday weekend.

"Even though most highway construction will halt across the state, motorists should be aware that some lane closures will remain in place," said McGrath. "Lane closures are there to protect motorists, and MDOT urges drivers to treat these areas as active work zones."

Over-size and over-weight hauling will also be restricted beginning at noon on Wednesday, November 27, and may resume normal travel on Friday, November 29. This does not apply to permitted loads that have 24-hour movement.

For more tips on traveling safe this holiday season, visit GoMDOT.com/drivesmart.

For the most current travel and traffic information, visit MDOTTraffic.com, download the free MDOT Traffic app, and like @MississippiDOT on Twitter and Facebook.

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Presents "Road to Mecca"

SEA COAST ECHO

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will continue its second show of the season "Road to Mecca" by Athol Fugard on Nov. 23 and 24. It is based on the life of Helen Martins, the artist whose home was established as one of the highest attended museums in her country. The play was adapted to a movie starring Kathy Bates and the author himself. The play won the New York Drama Critics Circle Award for Best Foreign Play. "Glow with a rare luminosity and intensity. Athol Fugard's latest play...is also his most eloquent and transforming." -The Christian Science Monitor. "One of Fugard's simplest, most beautiful plays." -The New York Daily News. "A powerful production that makes you catch your breath." -The New York Times.

This is an unusual drama about Miss Helen, an old Boer woman who lives alone in the South African boondocks. Helen found a new world for herself when most people are slowing down their life. She started creating sculptures which she calls her Mecca. A young woman who was once helped by Miss Helen has traveled hundreds of miles to help her in a time of crisis Miss Helen is in danger of being sent to an old folks' home by a narrow minded minister who considers her sculptures a public nuisance. A penetrating study of the role of the artist in any society, this important play was produced in London and New York to great critical acclaim.

The show is directed and produced by Cheryl Grace. Jen Coulter is assistant director. The cast includes Cheryl Grace, Jen Coulter, and Paul Bernard. Jen Coulter did set design and construction. Volunteer coordinator is Rachel Anderson. Sound effects and promotion are done by Clayton Pennylegion.

Show dates and times are Nov 23 at 8 p.m.; and Nov. 23 and 24 at 2 p.m. Doors open one hour before the show and seating starts 30 minutes before each show.

Having been legally correct will be of little consolation while you suffer in pain on the hospital bed.

Then, I started thinking about all the times I crossed the street assuming a nearby car would wait on me. You know what they say about the word assume. It makes an ass of "u" and "me."

Such pedestrian decisions should never be based on legal right-of-way. The deciding factor should be: "If the car suddenly accelerated at full speed, do I have time to get out of the way?" If the answer is no, then DO NOT WALK IN FRONT OF THE CAR.

Instead, stay out of the path of the car and wave it on. The few seconds you lose are not worth the risk of massive physical injury.

If a cautious person like me has taken 60 years to figure this out, I cringe at the thought of the millions of pedestrians who blithely walk in front of potentially deadly vehicles blindly assuming the driver will not make a mistake.

I have news for you. People make mistakes. All it takes is one mistake to ruin your life. Let the car go first. Every single time.

And when walking in parking lots, never, ever walk behind a parked car. Always walk in front.

A few hours later, I got a call. It was the driver who almost ran over me. He was an acquaintance of mine. A very nice man.

He was so apologetic, even distraught. If an accident had occurred, not only would I have been injured physically, he would have been traumatized emotionally. "What happened?" I asked. His answer was simple: "I was daydreaming."

That's it. Nothing more. Nothing less. Just daydreaming.

News flash: People daydream. And they do it while driving. I do it. You do it. We all do it. That's human nature.

I bear some additional responsibility. After parking my car on the corner, I entered the pedestrian crosswalk at an angle. If I had entered the crosswalk at the very start, the driver might have noticed me.

But the real point is this: We all need to change our attitude about walking on streets. Take your legal pedestrian right-of-way and banish it from your thought process. Instead, assume that sooner or later, a driver will screw up and come right at you. Then stay far enough away to ensure you have time to react.

That's defensive walking. It is the real standard that should determine how you interact with cars as a pedestrian.

Just imagine a pedestrian walking down a dark street with dark clothing listening to blaring music while a driver is answering a text. Instant tragedy. Last year, 6,227 to be exact.

I was spared, perhaps so I could write this, so that someone else will be spared. God works in mysterious ways.

President Robert Clark Marthouse, II, filed a complaint against Schafer in Diamondhead Municipal Court on Sept. 9, alleging that Schafer "did purposely, knowingly and unlawfully cause bodily injury" to Marthouse by pushing him, "knocking him down causing him to fall over chairs, landing on the ground back first."

The incident allegedly took place on Sept. 4, when Marthouse, Schafer and other members of the Community Collaborative Committee met to discuss Diamondhead amenities.

"The event in question occurred during an official city/POA meeting known as the Community Collaborative," according to a statement released by the POA. "This turn of events saddens us. This incident occurs at the most critical time in our community where we all need to pull together."

The majority of city's parks, golf courses and other recreational amenities are owned, funded and maintained by the POA with private funds generated by dues assessment to property owners pursuant to its covenants. However, the terms of those covenants begin to expire in 2020, leaving both city and POA officials looking for ways to continue funding the amenities.

Soon after the alleged incident, the Diamondhead City Council voted to appoint Councilwoman Nancy Depreo to replace Schafer on the Community Collaborative Committee.

Schafer's attorney Tim Holleman said publicly in September that there was "no substance" to the assault charge and he looks forward to getting people in court and "putting (them) under oath and letting them testify."

BEGINNERS LUCK

Had a really amazing trip recently. Mark and Denise were down vacationing from Jackson. Denise had never salt water fished, and wanted to give it a try. Mark had called ahead, to make sure we had a game plan. He didn't wanna get too far out, in case she didn't like it. He also said, "please find some fish that pull".

The weather was incredible, we just needed fish. Our first couple of stops were good and bad. Good, because it was constant action. It was bad, because we couldn't get away from the small/undersized reds. Denise was reeling in "rat reds" almost every cast. She probably would've been fine, fighting these small reds all day. Mark and I knew she was gonna be in for a treat, when the big ones showed up.

It was in our last hour when the big fish finally crashed the party. We landed right in the middle of a school of 18-24 inch fish, and they ate everything we threw. Denise couldn't believe how hard these fish actually fight. To make the day even more amazing, Denise caught not one, but TWO tagged redfish!!!

Later that evening, I checked my old tag books and discovered both fish were tagged on my boat back in August. I had tagged one, and my wife Stephanie tagged the other.

It was a great day on the water, especially for first timer Denise. I guess we can chalk it all up to beginners luck?...

As always, have fun and be safe.

yoga and coping skills."

- "Access to available resources for children and families."

Originally, McFadden said, she wanted to host an Angel's Tree, but Wilbourn told her that a Thanksgiving basket was a greater need.

McFadden reached out to the community through social media to see if anyone would want to participate in "Dumbbells for Donations."

In exchange for food donations, McFadden offered her personal training services at no charge.

Raoul Boughton, owner of Rah's Gym in Bay St. Louis, donated the space for McFadden's boot camp.

"I've always wanted to use fitness as a way to raise awareness," she said.

More than 30 people signed up for McFadden's boot camp.

"It makes me so happy to see how many are willing to help out and donate to others," she said. "I wanted to get as many as I could involved to have fun with fitness and teach them techniques."

The donations will feed 10 families at Brenda's House, McFadden said.

She added that she would "love to do this every year and help families in need celebrate during the holidays."

Wilbourn said the center is thankful for the community's support.

Brenda's House also feeds families weekly with its "Take Out Tuesday" program.

"It gives the families an opportunity to sit down together at the table, something most families take for granted," Wilbourn said. "And we wanted to do something special for them for Thanksgiving, so when Kayla called, it seemed like a perfect match. Her bootcamp members have done an amazing job. Our kids are going to have plenty for the Thanksgiving holidays."

People can donate to Brenda's House and its take-out program year round, Wilbourn said.

Bordelon said that there is also a clothesline where those in need can pick up items for free. There is also a jacket room with "wall to wall jackets" for the colder months.

Gina Luxich said she started coming to King's Kitchen about two years ago, after her daughter almost died from a seizure.

"I left my job at McDonalds to take care of her and I had no food and no money," she said. Luxich said she heard about King's Kitchen from a friend.

"I came in and the people are fantastic here," she said. "Everyone that serves is phenomenal. They actually saved my life. Without a meal to put in mine and my daughter's stomach, I don't know what we would have done."

In January of this year, Luxich said, she started attending services at Central Bible Church, something she said she hadn't done for a long time.

She also volunteers at the kitchen when she can.

"They've become more than a savior to me, they've become my family," Luxich said. "This kitchen is vital to Hancock County because we have so many that are in need. I know the people and each and every one of their needs. It's important to get the community involved to keep this up and going. The community needs it."

King's Kitchen is located at 2005 Longfellow Rd. in Bay St. Louis and serves meals Monday through Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

PERFORMING ARTIST

This year the Coast Chorale celebrates its 27th year of presenting Christmas and Spring concerts for the Gulf Coast and beyond. Artistic Director Allen Henson also is celebrating his 10th year at the helm of the Chorale.

This year's concert is entitled "The Heart of Christmas" and is presented in five sections: Time Honored Christmas Anthems; The Heart of Christmas; It's the Holiday Season of Christmas Favorites; Christmas in My Hometown and a finale of Selections from G.F. Handel's "Messiah". As always, the concert is free of charge, however generous donations are appreciated in order for the Coast Chorale to perpetuate its programs.

Elizabeth Huffmaster dreamed of becoming an artist at a very early age and took private art lessons beginning at the age of seven. She was introduced to many art mediums and excelled in her creativity throughout her elementary and high school years. The main mediums that Elizabeth chooses to work in are watercolor, gouache, and acrylics. She paints on traditional heavy-weight watercolor paper and has recently introduced watercolor canvas and Yupo paper to her body of work. The bold use of color and whimsical subject matter is what appeals to most collectors as well as her signature white lines in each piece. The subjects of Elizabeth's art include just about everything from formal, elegant floral to whimsical, Coastal animals to funky wine bottles and crazy music instruments. Just for a change from the norm, she has even produced some abstract art that proved to be just as fun. Elizabeth paints four to eight hours every day in her home studio located in Saucier, Mississippi. She maintains a steady workflow of commissions, and gallery work as well as participating in several local annual art festivals. She has illustrated children's books for local authors, supplied artwork for collectable posters for Coast events and produced a calendar of different themes. People along the Coast enjoy picking up her note cards to share with friends and family. Elizabeth has offered a new Christmas card each year featuring her artwork as well Christmas ornaments with her signature styled themes. Elizabeth's first priority is her children Justin and Jerald- she is the mother of two "special-needs" children who suffer from a genetic seizure disorder so her art career affords her the opportunity to maintain a flexible schedule to care for her two sons. Elizabeth has been married to her husband Richard for thirty years whom she considers her biggest supporter.

Artist Statement: "Art is my way of self-expression. I want to make you smile or laugh when you look at my work. I paint every day and I never grow tired or bored with it. I am very passionate about my work and it seems each piece spurs me on to the next one; they are all connected in a way. They tell a story. Each person has a talent and it is a gift from God. We should each recognize our individual gift and always use it to benefit others. I hope my artwork puts happiness in the observer's heart.

"4th Sunday at 4" is Christ Episcopal Church's gift to the Coastal Community. As such, "4th Sunday at 4" is free and open to the public. Also, no artist, performing or visual, is charged a fee to participate, nor is any commission or percentage taken by the church. All money in the "donation basket" is given to the performers, and all payments for art go directly to the artist. A church is seldom in a position to engage an entire community, but it can do its part by supporting one segment of a community. Christ Episcopal Church has chosen to do this by providing an ideal location for showcasing our local artists. For further information, contact: Church 467-7757.

Join Global Christmas project to send joy to children overseas

Nov. 18 – 25: National Collection Week for Operation Christmas Child Shoebox Gifts

SEA COAST ECHO

As Thanksgiving Day approaches, Bay Saint Louis families are expressing their gratitude by giving back. Residents are filling shoeboxes with fun toys, school supplies and hygiene items to send to children in need around the world. For many of these children, it will be the first gift they have ever received.

During Operation Christmas Child's National Collection Week Nov. 18 – 25, local residents will collect shoebox gifts at drop-off locations in the area. The Samaritan's Purse project, partnering with churches worldwide, will deliver these gifts to children in need. Area volunteers hope to collect more than 21,200 gifts during the week.

"It's amazing to see the local community rally together for a global impact," said Regional Director Shelli Wishard. "We see all ages getting involved – and more and more every year."

Bay Saint Louis residents are not alone in their effort to help children around the world. More than 150,000 U.S. volunteers including families, churches and other groups are joining forces to contribute to the largest Christmas project of its kind. In 2019, Samaritan's Purse hopes to collect enough Operation Christmas Child shoebox gifts to reach 11 million children, with 21,200 coming from the local area.

For more information on how to participate in Operation Christmas Child, call 770-777-9342, or visit samaritanaspurse.org/occ. Participants can donate $9 per shoebox gift online through "Follow Your Box" and receive a tracking label to discover its destination. Those who prefer the convenience of online shopping can browse samaritanaspurse.org/buildonline to select gifts matched to a child's specific age and gender, then finish packing the virtual shoebox by adding a photo and personal note of encouragement.

Operation Christmas

Child is a project of Samaritan's Purse, an international Christian relief and evangelism organization headed by Franklin Graham. The mission of Operation Christmas Child is to demonstrate God's love in a tangible way to children in need around the world and, together with the local church worldwide, to share the Good News of Jesus Christ.

Since 1993, Operation Christmas Child has collected and delivered more than 168 million gift-filled shoeboxes to children in more than 160 countries and territories.

Coast Chorale announces Christmas concerts

SEA COAST ECHO

Coast Chorale announced two concert dates for the 2019 Christmas season. The Chorale will perform at Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis, on Sunday, November 24th, at 4:00 p.m. and again, at Diamondhead Community Church on Saturday, December 7th, at 7:00 p.m. Concerts are presented free of charge through the support of generous benefactors.

Under the direction of Artistic Director and Conductor, Allen Henson, the Chorale will present, "The Heart of Christmas," presented in five sections: Time Honored Christmas Anthems; The Heart of Christmas; It's the Holiday Season of Christmas Favorites; Christmas in My Hometown; and a finale of Selections from G. F. Handel's "Messiah". This Christmas concert series marks the start of the 27th season for Coast Chorale, as well as, Henson's 10th anniversary season as Artistic Director.

The Chorale's performance at Christ Episcopal Church on November 24th will begin the 10th season of that organization's 4th Sunday at 4 concert series. Henson notes, "The Coast Chorale was the very first choral organization to perform at 4th Sunday at 4, and we have closed their season every year since. We are so proud to be associated with this great family event."

In addition to annual Christmas and spring concert seasons, Coast Chorale has represented the Mississippi Gulf Coast internationally by competing in choral competitions in Italy and Austria, taking the bronze medal out of 37 choirs competing in Vienna in 1996. The Chorale has also performed in New York City's Carnegie Hall three times under the baton of British composer and conductor, Dr. John Rutter.

Coast Chorale also serves as a community partner to the choral department at West Harrison High School. Henson and the Chorale offer these high school singers the opportunity to perform with the Coast Chorale. Henson says, "The mentoring program with West Harrison has been a great recruitment tool for their choir program, giving these students a chance to develop their choral singing skills, while acquiring real-world performance experience."

Henson believes that community involvement is crucial to the success of any community group, and so Coast Chorale also performs at various festivals and outdoor events throughout the year. In conjunction with the monthly Second Saturday celebration on December 14th at 6:00 p.m., the Chorale will walk the streets of downtown Bay St. Louis bringing traditional Christmas carols to holiday shoppers.

Shirley Halterman, Finance Director of the Chorale's board of directors, states, "The Coast Chorale is a community organization, made up of local singers, supported by local musicians, and funded by local benefactors. This group belongs to the Mississippi Coast, and so we feel honored to give back to the community that supports us. Therefore, we always present our concerts free of charge." As a non-profit organization, the Chorale is funded entirely through small donations from concert attendees, larger donations by sponsors in the Coast Chorale Angel Supporters program, and corporate sponsorships from donors such as Coast Electric.

For more information on upcoming concerts or to find out how to join Coast Chorale, go to www.coastchorale.org, contact Allen Henson at allenhenson07@gmail.com, or see a Chorale member following one of the concerts.

Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra Guild fundraiser: Winter Interlude

SEA COAST ECHO

The Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra Guild is proud to announce their new annual fundraiser titled Winter Interlude at White Pillars in Biloxi on Saturday, January 11, 2020. This event is to help support the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra, specifically their education programs. You may know that the Gulf Coast Symphony Orchestra does have a Youth Orchestra that performs two concerts a year. They also are the premier orchestra for the LinkUp program, a partnership with New York City's Carnegie Hall. This collaboration was set up to help spread the need for music education with an interactive concert. This year our Youth Orchestra will be performing two concerts, one in Gulfport and one in Kiln to about 1,000 third through fifth-grade elementary students. At Winter Interlude, guest will enjoy small plates and a buffet for the evening. To help raise funds, there will be a Cork Pull, each pull for $10. As guest enter the venue in their cocktail attire, a signature drink for the evening from Cathead Vodka will be presented, and music will fill the place to accompany the evening. The Winter Interlude is the first small step we can make to ensure that music remains accessible to students of all ages, which aligns with the GCSO mission statement: to cultivate, promote and foster the understanding and love of the musical arts in the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Tickets for the event are $100 and are available online at www.gulfcoast-symphony.net you may also call the office and charge tickets with a Visa, MasterCard or American Express (228-896-4276) or send a check to 11975 Seaway Road Suite B233 Gulfport, MS 39503 ATTN: GCSO. Sponsorship opportunities are also available.

St. Rose to host Reindeer Fun Run - Walk

SEA COAST ECHO

St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church is hosting a Reindeer 5K Fun Run - 2-Mile Walk on Saturday December 7. Runners and walkers will take off from Washington Street on the Beach Walk at 8:00 a.m. and head south toward Aiken Street and return to the finish line at Washington Street. "This is a first-time holiday event for St. Rose," said event chairperson Goldie Fairconnetue. "We wanted to do something that was both healthy, fun and that corresponds with the holiday season." Prizes will be awarded to first and second place finishers in the boys and girls under 18 division, and adult male and female 18 years of age and older categories in the 5K run. Prizes for best costumes will be awarded to children 15 years of age and younger. Adults and children of all ages are invited to participate. A long-sleeved tee shirt will be given to each participant who registers by November 26th. Registration for the 5K Fun Run - 2 Mile Walk costs $20 per adult and $12 per child under 18 years of age. If there is more than one child in a family, the cost is $10 per child.

If you are not be interested in participating as a runner or walker and would like to support this church fundraiser, tee shirt sponsorships are available. Businesses or family names and logos will be placed on the back of the tee shirt at a cost of $100. "We're excited about the community coming out to support this holiday event," said Fairconnetue. "A Reindeer Run is a great way of kicking off the holiday season." Applications are available in the church bulletin, the St. Rose de Lima office and by contacting Goldie Fairconnetue at (228)332-0526.

8th annual Tukey Trot to benefit Friends of the Hancock County Animal Shelter this Thanksgiving Day

SEA COAST ECHO

Thanks" and "Giving" go together, and what better way to say thanks this Thanksgiving Day than by giving back our loveable furry friends at the Friends of the Hancock County Animal Shelter. On Thursday, Nov. 28, 2019, the 8th Annual Fit First Turkey Trot 5K race and 1 Mile fun run will be held in downtown Bay St. Louis. The race begins at 8:00 AM starting at the Bay St. Louis Train Depot, trotting through Old Town Bay Saint Louis, reaching the beautiful Beach Boulevard & being completely stuffed for the finish back at the Depot! The registration fee is $40 until November 27 and $45 on race day. The race fee includes a t-shirt, wishbone medallion, great drinks, food, family fun, and music. Prizes in all age groups include turkeys, stuffing, and cranberry sauce. Pre-registration available online at active.com – 8th Annual Bay St. Louis Turkey Trot. Bay St. Louis Racing is hosting the annual Turkey Trot as a way for our community to give back, stay healthy and have a little fun through the holidays. If you are interested in sponsoring the Fit First Turkey Trot, please call (228) 342-6038 or email bslraces@gmail.com

Jennifer Baxter to speak at Historical Society luncheon

SEA COAST ECHO

The monthly luncheon meeting of the Hancock County Historical Society is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 21, at noon at the Kate Lobrano House. The speaker will be Jennifer Baxter, communications director of the Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission. Please call by noon on Wednesday, Nov. 20, to make your reservation in order to help organizers plan seating, which is limited to 54 people; and to apprise them of the number of lunches to order. Lunch is $14 for members and $15 for non-members, payable at the door, and will be catered by Almost Home Catering, Michelle Nichols, chef. The lunch menu is whiskey-glazed pork loin, corn pudding, mandarin orange salad, yeast rolls and pecan praline bread pudding.

PCMS Robotics off to great start

Robotics season is back and the Pass Christian Middle School robotics teams are already off to a great start! Recently, PCMS competed at St. Martin Middle school against middle schools across the state. Our teams demonstrated collaboration, sportsmanship, and determination. PCMS BRAVO team qualified for state by receiving the most coveted "Excellence" award - the highest award that a team can earn. PCMS Charlie team received the "Design" award for maintaining an excellent documentation of their robot build and design. The teams also recently competed at a tournament at Bayou View Middle school and PCMS BRAVO brought home the "Design" award, PCMS Charlie placed 2nd in the Teamwork matches, and PCMS Alpha ended their qualifying matches in first place! Congratulations to the students and their coach, Mr. Brandon Warden; we are so excited to see what else they may accomplish this season.
